

HELP SEARCH FOR DOROTHY ARNOLD

Case Is a Mystery to Young Griscom Home

HAS NO THEORY TO OFFER

Last Heard From Her About December 1st—Never

New York, Feb. 6.—George S. Griscom, Jr., of Pittsburgh, Pa., whose father, George S. Griscom, died in 1901, said Miss Dorothy Arnold brought his name into print concerning the two months' disappearance of his father in 1901. He said he was in Italy on the steamer Berlin. Although it was announced that John W. and G. Hinckley Arnold, brothers of the missing man, had been ordered to go down the bay in a revenue cutter to meet Griscom, none of the Arnolds had been seen since they left them at the pier when the vessel docked late tonight.

"The case is as much of a mystery as it was when I was a boy," said Griscom to those who boarded the Berlin at Quarantine, "but it is, I may say frankly, the most interesting case I have ever known to offer what assistance I can to the Arnold family."

"That lines his efforts would take, he does not know."

Does Not Know What Will Be Done.

"I have been on the sea for nearly two weeks," he said, "and I have reof December. Miss Arnold disappeared December 12, and it was two days later that I saw her received in the cablegram telling of her disappearance."

Her Last Letter Was Cheerful.

"Was there anything in this last letter that gave any intimation of her proposed movement?" was asked of him by "other people."

"Yes," said Griscom, "the letter was cheerful, but it gave no intimation of her disappearance from home. I cannot say that it was cheerful, but I can emphatically when questioned that she was not and never had been engaged to marry. I have never seen her since she was on November 3, before he departed with his parents for a visit to Italy."

When Mr. Griscom senior and his son denied that the visit which John W. Arnold paid to the Griscoms in Florida was a prelude to a marriage, "There was no quarrel," both said, "for we did all we could to straighten out the mystery."

to I do not know what I can do to help them. I haven't," he continued, "the letter from the woman Arnold's disappearance." He did not, however, scout the belief which the missing girl's mother, Mrs. Adeline Arnold, maintains, that the girl is dead. Acknowledging he had last heard from Miss Arnold through a letter received at Florence, Italy, about the first of last year, he said:	Another Dorothy Arnold. Beilingsham, Wash., Feb. 9.—Former Mayor Komaine, the attorney in whose care the letters were received, said that the woman who had written the letters addressed was a client of his who could not possibly be the missing New York girl. He said that the woman was the wife of Beilingsham, but had been east for several years.

The senators who voted against the increase in popular magazine circulation were Messrs. Owen of Oklahoma and Bourne of Oregon. Mr. Owen based his opposition upon a ground reading should not be levied by congress, while Mr. Bourne contended that the proposed legislation was in favor of newspapers and that they should be taxed likewise.

Who may receive the rate for carrying the advertising sections of magazines will apply only to the large publications. The advertisement is limited to such periodicals of less than 4,000 pounds' weight per issue. The privilege of carrying such advertisements will be granted by the amendment to fraternal, patriotic, scientific and educational magazines. Act in Favor Today.

Washington, Feb. 9.—The campaign of the Taft administration and the various committees of the house of representatives for the ratification by congress of the reciprocity agreement with Canada moved on again today. The House committee on ways and means held its final hearing and is expected in session tomorrow. The House committee on commerce is expected to report it favorably for the consideration of the house.

The committee on agriculture are that the house democrats will support the bill, which event the senate democrats probably will follow suit. The House committee on the judiciary can be learned, the plan tonight is to bring the McCall bill in from committee tomorrow, without any rule read, and its consideration on the floor.

This would leave it open to amendment. The friends of the bill would press the belief, however, that a large majority of the house is in favor of the adoption of the measure. The House stands, particularly since a single amendment may defeat the whole
